SUPPLEMENT

ORIGIN

The installation described below earlier was reported as a Special Construction and Technical Bureau engaged in research on proximity fuses and as the Special Construction and Research Bureau No. 2 (SKTB-2) of the Peoples' Commissariat for Machine Tools:

Installation

1. The Special Construction and Technical Bureau 2 (SKTB-2) is located in the Sachsenwerk building in Niedersedlitz (F28).

Personalities

2. Major Barski, Russian chief.

Dr. Kunze, head engineer.

Gerhard Unge, chief of personnel and business manager. Formerly a Nazi, now an active SED member.

Current Activities

3. The Bureau works under the Peoples' Commissariat for the Electro Industry in Moscow, receiving its orders through Secretaries-General Sasinsky and Famengo at Karlshorst. These men also make inspections of the Bureau.
4. Orders from Moscow for radio apparatus, special automobile parts, or other items provide specifications for weight, price, and other technical data. When plans are completed at Niedersedlitz, they are submitted to Karlshorst for evaluation and, if accepted, a few trial samples are made and shipped to Russia.

Personnel

5. At present the SKTB-2 employs 300 persons, 180 of whom are engineers and electro-technicians from various dismantled plants in the Russian Zone. The Bureau's plans call for the employment of 400 people by 1 January 1947. When new personnel are hired, emphasis is placed on their technical ability without regard for political pasts.
